

RAYMOND GOINS

Thursday, September 18, 2008

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Atlanta Furniture Designer Raymond Goins was featured on the new cable television series "Bonus Room Breakout," which began airing on the Do It Yourself Network (DIY) in September of 2008.

Tune in to the DIY network on Saturday, September 20th starting at 1:00 p.m. to see Atlanta's furniture maverick Raymond Goins as he helps a young family tackle a daunting home renovation project.

See the dramatic transformation as an old, 1930's cellar basement is transformed into a cool, contemporary living space with the signature artistic touches of Raymond Goins, including antique bottle table lamps, a modern fireplace, spun aluminum kitchen lighting and a handmade vanity mirror.

The show was filmed in a historic home in Knoxville, TN during the months of June and July ('08).

The DIY Network is owned by Scripps Networks, parent company to HGTV, Food Network, Fine Living and GAC. For show information, please visit: www.diynetwork.com/bonus-room-breakout/show/index.html
